WAR NOTES

The British have captured the villages of St. Pierre Divion and Beaumont-Hamel. This drive extended over a five-mile front and to a depth of a mile. 6,000 German prisoners were taken.

Beaucourt has also been captured by the British.

The Rumanians are still on the Dobruja front where the Germans and Bulgars are retreating.

The deportation of the Belgians to Germany still continues, and the country is being denuded of its male population.

These Belgians are virtually slaves, the Germans forcing them to work.

The Serbians are now ten miles in their own country from the Greek boundary, and are pressing hard on the heels of the retreating Bulgars.

The French lost some trenches on the Somme front.

Romanians are retreating along the Transylvania frontier.

"It's a hard thing that you're asking of a fellow," he said, in a wounding light tone, trying to be playful. "But she was too much in earnest for that."

"All I want to be sure of is that I am right about you, and that the others—those that think me foolish for trusting you—are wrong. I want you to swear that I am right."

There was a pause.

"You are right," he said at last, earnestly.

"Swear!" she whispered.

His hand tightened upon hers.

"I swear it."

She lay back, satisfied, and the expression of her features altered and became more peaceful. She had had a restless night, but Paul did not know how sleepless, how uneasy, he had been—did not guess until, to his surprise, when he had been holding her hand in his for some twenty minutes, he looked down at her, and saw that, in the broad daylight, at half-past twelve o'clock, she had fallen asleep.

There was moisture in the rascal's eyes as he withdrew his hand from hers, placed a light rug over her, and slipped quietly out of the room.

He went downstairs and slunk out of the house by himself, deeply touched, thoughtful.

Paul, who had loved him, trusted him, married him, and who had then lost her confidence and found it again, had reached down with the sweet strength of her manhood, to all that was best in him.

She had a strong sense of conscience, and conscience had wakened out of her long sleep and was troubling him as it had never done before. For the first time in his life he knew what it was to consider, the claims of another; to look at life from a point of view other than his own.

The change in him did not perhaps go down much deeper than this, that he wanted to be able to satisfy her, and knew that she would be satisfied.

with nothing less than absolute reticence in the man she loved. But such as it was, this standard of life was the best he had ever had, and the desire in him to live up to it was a genuine one.

He wanted to have done with crooked ways, and to "go straight."

But retribution was on his heels for deeds he had done, and wished to have done with—and he knew it.

CHAPTER XX.

When Paul told Gane that he knew there was a detective watching him, he spoke from conjecture rather than from absolute knowledge, for he had not seen the person in question. He had, however, heard from his wife that there was talk among the servants to the effect that a man suspected of being a detective was watching in the grounds, and this was enough for Paul.

It was not to be risked that Brady Gane should be followed with the jeweller about, and so, when Paul was now exceedingly anxious to find some way of breaking with his old confederates, and would have been quite ready to get rid of all the stones to effect a definite separation, he dared not take any short cut to liberty which might land him in fresh difficulty.

For there were several things to be considered. For one, there was a satisfactory story to be concocted to account for the disappearance of the jewellery about which so much had been heard at the time of the marriage. It would have been easy to find such a story for Lady Ursula, who had never been anxious to keep them except as proofs of Paul's independence.

But there was her family to satisfy, and Lord Craventown would likely have made very close inquiries into the matter if the jewels were to disappear, without leaving a trace behind.

Then there was the difficulty of handing over to the two confederates—Brady Gane and Lady Emmeline—shares of the stones in such a manner, and such a place as to avoid being caught in the act by the police, who were evidently on the alert.

He felt fairly sure that he himself was not being watched, but if Gane were shadowed, and the stones were traced to him, his confederates would be dragged into the business.

Probably the remaining difficulty—the desire to restore the jewels to their rightful owners in Vienna was by far the weakest of the impediments which plagued Paul. But in the religious reverence which formed part of his new love for his wife, even that feeling had some place.

He wanted, as he had said, to turn over a new leaf, and this he could hardly do, much plainer reflected in his hands.

In the meantime there was the fear of Gane, and still more of Evans, to trouble him. The Welshman was a vindictive and mean little rascal at the best of times, and his temper would not be easily controlled in the failure of his companion to obtain possession of the stones.

These considerations made Paul moody, and some among the house party were not long in discovering that there was a conspicuous change in him.

Also it was noticeable that Lady Ursula's frank happiness was shadowed by some vague cloud.

Lady Hugo noted these facts to Lady Emmeline, who had grown somewhat distant to her brother-in-law, following the lead set by Lord Eastling.

Of course this attitude of his brother and sister was observed by Lady Ursula, and formed a new trial for her gentle patience.

It was on the day following the visit of Brady Gane, and before Paul had arrived, and so he had many difficulties. Lady Hugo, strutting out into the grounds, and coming, by accident of course, face to face with Lady Emmeline as she was feeding the golden pheasants in the aviary by the rose garden, made some comment upon Paul's mysterious absence.

"He used to be such a lively fellow," said Hugo. "But this marriage of his seems to have spoilt him altogether."

"You seem to forget that he's married my sister," said Lady Emmeline with some indignation. "I was going to say that marriage has spoilt her, too. Matrimony is responsible for having ruined two lives," he added pensively.

"What nonsense!" cried the girl. "As to my sister, well, I've very much fallen in love with him."

"Indeed, I don't see why you should say that," said Hugo, standing up for the friend for whose introduction to the earl's family he felt himself to be responsible. "She appears to be very fond of Payne."

"She's a great fool too fond of him," said Lady Emmeline.

"Don't you think that if we must have this absurd and ominous institution called marriage, it's better for the contracting parties to have some attraction for each other?" demanded Hugo judicially.

"Oh, I suppose so."

"At any rate, it's quite usual," said Hugo.

"What handsome birds those pheasants. We can talk about them any time. Let us go on about marriage. It's a theme on which I could talk for hours."

"I never say anything in the least interesting or intelligent about it," cried Lady Emmeline, with sudden and suspicious demureness.

He seemed rather disconcerted.

"Don't I? Now I really thought I did. I always stand up for it. I must say, to be sure, that I'm not a bad sort of a man," said Lady Emmeline. "But I've changed my mind. Since I've seen a little more of its effects upon my sister's spirits, I'm quite ready to agree with you that it ought to be abolished."

Hugo was scandalized.

"I never said that," objected Hugo, aghast.

" Didn't you? Well, it doesn't matter," cried Lady Emmeline inconsequently. "There's the postman. I must see if I've got a letter."

"What letter are you expecting?" demanded Hugo with sudden anxiety.

But she would not tell him.

"Oh, it's not so very important," she said, growing demure again.

"I'm expecting a letter, too," cried Hugo, in a vicious tone. "Very important, mine is. Let's go and—say—him."

But the postman had no letters for either of them. There was the usual batch for the head of the house, one or two for members of the family, and one for Paul, which Lady Emmeline undertook to deliver to her brother-in-law.

Hugo was disgusted when she took this excuse for going into the house; she had got into a disagreeable habit of cutting short the interviews with him which he spent most of his time in contriving. Hugo had been beginning to think that it was finished.

But in this he was wrong.

Lady Emmeline delivered the missive to Paul, who was writing letters in the study. He knew the handwriting, which was round, clear and good, the manner in which it was written. He recognized as that of Brady Gane, and opened the letter with apprehension, which proved to be well founded.

Gane informed him that he and Evans were being "shaded" and that Paul had better "look out." On the whole, the letter was not ill-natured, although the writer expressed some impatience that "Syd" had not yet found a way of handing over the jewels safely.

Gane said you don't mean to, but I know what you mean to. It was the line that struck Paul as having a peculiarly unpleasant significance.

Light in the Poultry House

Fowls Need Plenty of Sunshine During Winter Months

It seems superfluous to say that the poultry-house should face the south so that as much sunshine as possible may be admitted through the windows. The fowls need all the sunshine they can get during the winter months. The windows should be placed and eight inches apart.

The floor should be so arranged that they can be opened on pleasant days. It is a good plan to use double windows, not only because they are warmer, but also because they will, if tightly fitted, become covered with frost in a single window, and will allow a single sash to penetrate the interior of the building.

Where single windows are used, it is a good plan to have a blanket so arranged that it can be let down over the windows on extremely cold nights. Care must be taken, however, not to tightly fit, become covered with frost, and the roosts are partitioned off or otherwise protected.

An ordinary sized window such as is used in dwelling-houses is plenty large enough for a house ten by fifteen feet, and should be placed lengthwise with the floor.

She: Then papa didn't refuse to listen to you?

He: No, dearest. You see, I began by telling him I knew of a plan whereby he could save money.

Special Grades of Grain For Seed Purposes

Order-in-Council Has Been Passed By Dominion Government

With the object of creating a special grade of grain of superior quality for seed, the government has passed an order-in-council, under the authority of the Dominion Seed Act, creating the following grades exclusively for seed purposes:

No. 1 Canadian Western seed oats shall be composed of No. 1 or No. 2 C. W. oats, shall contain 95 per cent, of white oats, sound, clean and free from other grain, shall be free from noxious weed seeds, weighing not less than 45 pounds to the bushel.

No. 2 Canadian Western seed oats shall be composed of 85 per cent, of Marquis wheat, sound, clean and free from other grain and free from noxious weed seeds, weighing not less than 50 pounds to the bushel.

No. 3 Canadian Western seed oats shall be composed of Red Fife and Marquis wheat shall be kept separate.

No. 4 wheat shall be composed of Grades No. 2 Northern, No. 3 Northern or No. 4 slightly frosted wheat of Red Fife or Marquis varieties, and red-cleaved shall be practically free from other grain and free from noxious weed seeds, weighing not less than 50 pounds to the bushel.

No. 5 seed purposes Red Fife and Marquis wheat shall be kept separate.

No grain shall be accepted for seed which will require a large dockage to clean.

Old Uncle Jacob was walking merrily up and down the village street dressed in his Sunday suit. "Hallo, Uncle Jacob," cried one of his neighbors, "are you having a holiday?"

"Yes, I am," replied Uncle Jacob, proudly. "I'm celebrating my golden wedding."

"Then why isn't your wife celebrating?" asked the neighbor.

"She ain't got a soul to do with," replied Uncle Jacob indignantly. "She's the fourth."

Correct Prognostication

The man who thought the first five years of the European war would be the worst seems to have hit it right.

Of all overworked women probably the housewife is the hardest worked. She has to do a great deal of work and little help.

Her work can be lightened if she knows the value of system and she should try and take a short rest in the daytime. A physician who became famous almost all over the world, Doctor Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y., spent a great deal of time in a farming district. He there observed the lack of system in the planning of the work.

He said it is headache, a backache, a sensation of irritability or twitching and uncontrollable nervousness, something must be wrong with the head or back, a woman naturally says, but all the time the real trouble very often centers in the organs of the body. The doctor said that the best way to treat a woman is to get her to take rational treatment for its cure. The disorder should be treated steadily and systematically with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

For diseases from which women suffer, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a powerful restorative. During the last fifty years it has banished from the lives of tens of thousands of women the pain, worry, misery and distress caused by these diseases.

You are a doctor, get Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in liquid or tablet form to-day. Then address Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., and get confidential medical advice entirely free.

Moving

"Dad," said the eight-year-old of the family, "here's a book that says that Orpheus was such a fine musician that he made trees and stones move."

"Son," said father, solemnly, "your sister Bess has Orpheus beaten. Her piano-playing has made twenty families move out of this building in the last three months."—Puck.

WOMAN AVOIDS OPERATION

Medicine Which Made Surgeon's Work Unnecessary.

Astoria, N. Y.—"For two years I was feeling ill and took all kinds of medicine to make me feel better. I was getting worse everyday. I had chills, my head would ache, I was always tired. I could not walk straight because of the pain in my back and I had pains in my stomach. I went to a doctor and he said I must go under an operation, so I did not go. I read in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and told my husband about it. I said 'I know nothing will help me but I will try this.' I found myself improved every day. In about two weeks time I was able to sit down and eat a hearty breakfast with my husband, which I had not done for two years. I am now in the best of health and don't have to go to the doctor any more."

Every one dreads the surgeon's knife and the operating table. Sometimes nothing else will do; but many times doctors say there are no necessary when they are not. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was used and good health followed.

If you want advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (Confidential), Lynn, Mass.

Be Kind to the Horse

Follow the Golden Rule and Treat Your Horse as You Would Wish Him to Treat You.

Be kind to the horse, says The Indiana Farmer. Don't berate him because he does something which should not have been done. Perhaps he had the right motive, but in his dumb way he was unable to express it. Perhaps he wanted to help you. Possibly he meant no evil, though outwardly he seemed perverse and stubborn. Give him credit for it, at least trying to be good, for there are few horses which are naturally bad.

Many persons take it for granted that when a horse does wrong he intended to do so, and they therefore punish him for it. Now, this action only aggravates the matter, and if possible will make the horse worse. The animal will be sore from mistreatment by his master. This and this only explains why some horses are bad.

The best policy is to be kind to the animal. Don't expect as much understanding from him as from a man. Remember that of all the animals which aid man the horse is the most useful. Give him credit for that. Don't think him mean, for, unless made so by man he seldom is. Don't punish him for every wrong he does, for possibly they are not intentional. Try to put yourself in his place, and don't forget that he is a slave.

Be kind to him, and see for yourself if your work does not proceed more smoothly than ever before. Follow the Golden Rule and treat your horse as you would wish him to treat you if your positions were reversed. Investigate for once, and you will never say again that kindness doesn't pay.

The official geologist of Newfoundland estimates that the iron ore deposits in that colony are about 3,035,500,000 tons. On Belle Isle, Conception Bay, one of the islands, the ore is put at 35,000,000 tons, to which the ore from Newfoundland is now being taken by Canada for munitions purposes.

Note and Comment

The most densely populated place in the world is Macao, a Portuguese colony in Asia, which has 19,390.3 persons per square mile. The least populated country is Labrador, which has only .03 per square mile. The United Kingdom has 373.01; India 174.81; Canada 1.93; Australia, 1.50; Argentine, 0.5; South Africa, 12.62; Austria, 24.6; Belgium, 652; Germany, 310.8; United States, 31.1 persons per square mile.

Many of us waste fully one-fourth of our time and energy by constantly breaking away from the particular thing we are doing, to do or start something else—to return in a moment or so to finish what we left.

We jump—mentally, physically, or both—from one idea to another and back again all day long. In most cases this habit can be corrected; it is nothing more than thoughtlessness.

And it should be corrected, for such persons in office or shop are not only inefficient but have a tendency to distract others. —Ex.

The paper-hangers took possession of our 'ink-shop' for several days, this week, and kind of had us standing on our heads, up in a corner, and they condescended that we could be doing enough to keep ourselves warm while they were slinging the paste, so that the 'News' would be out on time.

How about having a sale of donated articles in aid of the Red Cross or Patriotic Fund, or for both of them?

This scheme has been tried in other places and has always met with success. Everyone donates some article, or as many as they wish, and these are auctioned off, the proceeds going to the war relief funds.

All kinds of things have been donated for these sales, those in the country giving farm products or home-made goods while those in town donated supplies, fancy work etc.

We would like to see a sale put on here in Monitor and we will boost it all we can in the 'News'. We feel assured that if the local committees take it up they will meet with a hearty response from the people throughout the surrounding district, and give every person a chance to do their 'bit'.

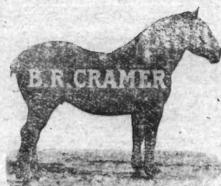

The Chicago Tribune says: "If neutral nations, after the war, are to participate in preserving peace, they must be prepared to undertake not more than they are able to uphold by force; thus spake Sir Edward Grey. In that case, the United States will continue to knit socks for the Belgians."

Like other games, the war game is often postponed by the rain.

A preacher in Boston recently announced that he had discovered a prophecy of the coming of the automobile, in these words, found in Nahum, 2, 4: "The chariots shall rage in the streets, they shall jostle one against another in the broadway; they shall seem like torches, they shall run like lightnings." The Chronicle Herald of Macon, Mo., now claims priority of discovery for the Rev. G. E. Edwards, of that town, who cited the verse in a sermon more than a year ago.

Philadelphia doctors have discovered through experiments that seasickness has its origin in the ear. From experience its effects are always felt some distance from the ear.

Who wouldn't be a thresher during these fine-bracing days? Look at all the sport there is in digging the bundles out of the snow, and crawling out of bed before breakfast.

The Family Doctor Tried in Vain to Heal the Sores— Another Tribute to This Great Healing Ointment

It may be interesting to note that Dr. Chase's Ointment was originally compounded to cure a case of eczema on a child. The disease had spread almost over the entire body, and failed all the regular treatments for such troubles. The doctor was perplexed, but finally hit on the formula of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and, as many say, "it worked like a charm," healing up the nasty sores and leaving the skin soft and smooth.

There is a good many years ago, and since then many thousands of cases of eczema, both in children and adults, have been cured, until today Dr. Chase's Ointment is recognized as the standard for itching skin diseases.

Attn. Geo. McNair, River Charles, N.B., writes as follows: "We use Dr. Chase's Ointment in our home, and would not wish for anything better for cuts, burns and bruises. A few years ago a friend of mine whose baby was terribly afflicted with eczema, had her child treated by their own family physician, but the little one got no better. They tried several remedies, but they all proved useless in the case. Upon the advice of a neighbor, they got Dr. Chase's Ointment, and before the first box was used the child was completely cured. "I can also recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to suffering friends who know not what to do in some of these cases. I have no trouble. You have my permission to use this letter for the benefit of others."

Soothing and healing is Dr. Chase's Ointment that relief from itching and burning comes almost as soon as the ointment is applied. The treatment, and the process of healing is soon begun. By persistent use of the ointment cure is effected. 60 cents a box, all dealers, or Edman-Son, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

The Advertising Sense of the Hen
A hen is not supposed to have much sense or tact, yet every time she lays an egg she crackles for the fact. A rooster hasn't got a lot of intellect to show, but none the less most roosters have got sense enough to crow. ST. VITUS DANCE CAN BE EASILY CURED

A Tonic for the Blood and Nerves With Rest All That Is Needed

Many a child has been called awfully, has been punished in school for not keeping still or for dropping things, but the trouble was really St. Vitus dance. This trouble may appear at any age, but is most often met between the ages of six and fourteen. The most frequent cause of the disease is poor blood, aggravated by indoor confinement, or inental, or at school. Under these conditions the blood fails to carry nourishment to the nerves, and the child begins to show listlessness and inattention. Then it becomes restless and twitching of the muscles and jerks the limbs and body below. A result of this can be St. Vitus dance, and cures are so thorough that no trace of the disease remains is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which renew the blood, thus feeding and strengthening the starved nerves. This is the only way to cure the trouble, and parents should lose no time in giving the treatment. The child will soon be nervous or irritable. Mrs. Wm. A. Squires, Cannington, Ont., says: "My only daughter, now fourteen years of age, was troubled for several years with St. Vitus dance. She was so bad at times that she would lose control of her limbs and her face and eyes would be contorted. We had medical advice and medicine, but it did not help her. In fact we thought the trouble growing worse, and finally had to take her to school. About a year ago we began giving her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and at the time she had taken five boxes she was completely cured, and is now a fine, healthy girl. I firmly believe we owe this to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and are very grateful for her restoration to perfect health."

You can get these pills from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Education Progress

Forty-three new school districts were established in the province of Alberta during the past three months. There are now upwards of 3,400 school districts in the province, organized according to the density of the population, but none more than five miles in length and breadth.

All He Had
Lord Northcliffe, in one of his letters from the front, describes some of the minor works of the great army now on the field. One department cares for the property of the dead soldiers. This is sent in bags bound from the field and each individual parcel finally sent to its proper destination. "I watched," says Lord Northcliffe, "the opening of one such pathetic parcel during the final clearing. It contained a few pence, a pipe, a photo of wife and baby, a trench ring made of the old minnie of an enemy, a few coins, a small minnie and a pouch. It was all the man had."

The Last Great West
Northern British Columbia is the last great undeveloped area. Everywhere else in the United States and Canada settlement has proceeded rapidly, but as yet, in the north of this province the newcomer has hard by made a place for himself. Those who know the north of the great west will be the greatest of all its agricultural possibilities will give it in the course of time a development that is now even guessed at. But that development will have to be guided and aided by judicious Governmental assistance.—Vancouver World.

Mansions of Meerschaum

Unpretentious Houses of This Material to Be Found in Spain

Even the most aesthetically inclined of our American millionaires would hardly consider the idea of living in a palace made of meerschaum as within the range of their fortunes, yet there are many unpretentious houses of this material in the Spanish town of Vallecas, near Madrid, where a coarse variety of this substance is to be found. On the coast of the Mediterranean, just across the Straits of Gibraltar, find that still another variety of meerschaum lathers freely and they use it, perhaps sparingly, as a substitute for soap.

Chips and sawdust of the meerschaum pipe factories make an excellent packing material, and certain stains from costly fabrics. An inferior pipe is also made from these scraps, the fragments being bound together with some solution and then melted into blocks.

Meerschaum is found in Greece and in Turkey, Armenia, as well as Asia Minor, and is also limited extent in Pennsylvania, South Carolina and in the upper Gila valley, near Silver Lake, N. M. Stone, New York

World's Record Wheat Crop

In view of the various claims of world's record wheat crops for larger areas, the Croftfoot Farming Company of Croftfoot, Alberta, submit a sworn statement of their results for the year 1915, which probably surpass all properly authenticated claims from other sources. From 1,356 acres the Croftfoot Farming Company received an average yield of 5 bushels, 56 1/3 pounds per acre of number one spring wheat, by actual selling weight, 400 acres of wheat averaged 59 1/3 bushels per acre. These records were established in the Canadian Pacific Railway Irrigation Block in Southern Alberta.

RELIEVE HEADACHES WITHOUT DOSING

By Applying Sloan's Liniment to Forehead You Can Stop the Severe Pains

Many headaches are of a neuralgic origin. The symptoms of such headaches are intense and lingering pains in the brow, temples or back of the head.

There is one certain relief that has been known and recommended for years back. Sloan's Liniment! One application and the dull pain is practically gone. It is easily applied without rubbing. Rubbing is unnecessary, as Sloan's Liniment quickly penetrates the skin of forehead, neck, shoulder, muscles, rheumatism, bruises, lumbago, chilblains, sprains, and stiff neck can also be most effectively treated with Sloan's Liniment.

At all drug stores, 25c, 50c, $1.00. At Sloan's Liniment, 25c, 50c, $1.00.

Tuberculosis Among Troops

More Soldiers Develop Tuberculosis in Canada than Overseas

Col. Thompson, of the Yukon, who is in charge of the convalescent hospitals for soldiers in Canada, made the interesting statement, bearing out previous reports, that Canadian soldiers developed tuberculosis in Canada than in England or at the front. He said the ratio was 60 to 40.

Col. Thompson gives as the reason for this that tuberculosis in its incipiency is very difficult to diagnose and service men having trouble with tuberculosis often develop it with the change in mode of life. The change to barrack life frequently hastens the development of tuberculosis in these men.

Many mothers have reason to bless Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator, because it has relieved the little ones of suffering and made them healthy.

"I mean what I said," insisted the janitor, "October."

"But there isn't any such month," declared Findlay.

"That's why I made it October," answered the janitor.—New York Telegraph.

A new story is at hand bearing upon the exasperating delay in completing the new building of the new hospital in Massey, Ontario, a day passing the clubhouse, where the work upon the addition is still in progress. Meeting the janitor, Findlay asked him how soon the building would be ready for occupancy.

"The janitor, an Irishman, replied:

"Always the first of October!"

"Findlay retorted: "You mean September."

"I mean what I said," insisted the janitor, "October."

"But there isn't any such month," declared Findlay.

"That's why I made it October," answered the janitor.—New York Telegraph.

Decreased Wheat Yield For Canada This Year

Dominion Government's Estimate Is for a Total Crop of 159,123,000 Bushels

The wheat crop of Canada for the present year will be only 159,123,000 bushels, as compared with 370,303,000 bushels in 1915, according to an official estimate. The wheat crop in 1915 was estimated at 157,875 bushels from a harvested area of 10,058,300 acres, as compared with 29 bushels from a harvested area of 12,986,400 acres in 1915.

The marked decrease in the production of oats also was indicated by the estimated yield of 338,469,000 bushels from 9,795,000 acres, a yield of 34,55 bushels per acre, as against 45,76 bushels last year when the production was 320,103,000 bushels from a harvested area of 11,365,000 acres.

The barley crop is estimated at 32,299,000 bushels from 1,328,800 acres, or 24.31 bushels per acre. Last year's crop was 53,331,300, and the acreage 1,509,350.

The probable production of rye was estimated at 2,058,500 bushels from 101,420 acres, or an average yield per acre of 20.30 bushels as against a total production in 1915 of 2,394,100 bushels from an acreage of 112,300.

The New English Armies
It is the soul of England which in two years has made an army that is not content to hold its ground against an army at which Prussia has been laboring for three centuries. It is the soul of England which dominates the German. It is the intransigence of the Serbians around and it is rumored, though there is nothing to vouch for its accuracy, that the crown of Serbia was hidden by the monks of Detchani in a safe hiding place. The Austrians have found the hiding places in the mountains and have taken them to convert. Cases of precious stones, ancient gold, and silver money, gold chalices, and sacerdotal vestments covered with Cyrillic characters, and antiquaries are said to have proceeded there to value the treasure on behalf of the Austrian Treasury.

A Scottish farmer was being local court, "You affirm that when this happened you were going home to a meal?" said the lawyer. "Yes, sir, I was," retorted the plaintiff, because it is very important one. He good enough to tell me what meal it was you were going home to?" "Well, I would like to know, what meal it was?" said the Scotsman. "Yes, sir, I should like to know," replied the lawyer, "immediately." "Well, then, it was just oatmeal!"

eru skin-troubles by applying ointment to the surface skin. You must reach the underlying tissues where the disease has its roots. Ordinary ointments cannot do this, and that is why the relief they give is only temporary.

Zam-Buk, on the contrary, has such power of penetration, combined with unusual germ-destroying properties, that it reaches and destroys all germs in the underlying tissues. Then in the healing essence promote the growth of new flesh, which gradually develops until the diseased patch is entirely replaced by new, healthy tissue, and a complete and permanent cure is effected.

Zam-Buk is best for eczema, and all skin troubles, ringworm, ulcers, abscesses, salt rheum, chronic sores, blood-poisoning, boils, piles, tumors, bunions and all skin infections. All directions or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, 56c, box 2 for $1.20.

Stole Serbia's Crown Jewels

It is stated from Cettinje that the Austrians have taken the famous treasures of the Monastery of Detchani, in New Serbia, valued at several millions of francs.

King Peter stopped at Detchani during the greater part of the Serbian armistice, and it is rumored, though there is nothing to vouch for its accuracy, that the crown of Serbia was hidden by the monks of Detchani in a safe hiding place. The Austrians have found the hiding places in the mountains and have taken them to convert. Cases of precious stones, ancient gold, and silver money, gold chalices, and sacerdotal vestments covered with Cyrillic characters, and antiquaries are said to have proceeded there to value the treasure on behalf of the Austrian Treasury.

Unity of French and British

Complete Harmony and Singleness of Purpose Marks All Operations

There is an aspect of the Franco-British offensive that one hears nothing about, and that is the complete harmony of the armies of the Allies in their field operations. Never before in history, so far as I know, have nations fought side by side in a great war without friction, confusion, cross-purposes and heartburnings.

Keep your children in good health.

Too Complicated for Comfort

The late Gilman Marston of New Hampshire, was arguing a complicated case before the Senate Committee back to Julius Caesar. At the end of an hour and a half, in the most intricate part of his plea, he was pained to see what looked like inattention. It was as he had feared. The judge was failing to appreciate the nice points of his system.

"Our honor," he said, "I beg your pardon; but do you follow me?"

"I have so far," answered the judge, shifting wearily about in his chair,

"but I'll say frankly that if I thought

I could find my way back, I'd quit

The Orkneys in Pawn

Could Be Redeemed By Denmark By Payment of Pledge

The Orkney Islands, says Pearson's Magazine, do not really belong to Great Britain in the sense that they were ever ceded by treaty or acquired by conquest. They were taken from Norway by Denmark to Scotland in 1468, in payment for the dowry of the Princess of Denmark, who was married to James III, King of Scotland. In the deed of transfer, which is still in existence, it is specially mentioned that Denmark should have the right to redeem them at any future time by paying the original amount of the dowry with interest to date.

There is no likelihood, however, that Denmark will ever attempt to extort her right of redemption, because only a thousand dollars amount of the dowry, plus compound interest for 448 years, would amount to perhaps a trillion pounds, and that is a bit more than the islands are worth.

Worms, however generated, are found in the digestive tracts, where they set up disturbances detrimental to the health of the child. There can be no comfort for the little ones until the harmful intruders have been removed. No better remedy for this purpose can be had than Miller's

Worm Powders. They will immediately destroy the worms and correct the conditions that were favorable to their existence.

Standard Type in Stables

Modern efficiency is rapidly evolving in the stable type of farm and stable. This is about the same as the farm wide, and as long as may be necessary to accommodate the number of cattle kept on the farm. This provides for two rows of cattle and gives the owner an opportunity to regulate the individual feedings properly and to insure the best use of the stable. Tablets for the inside furnishings of dairy stables have standardized their stalls, stanchions and mangers to conform to these measurements. Tablets for new barns or remodeling an old barn, is always better to consult an expert and have definite plans to follow while the work is being done. — Successful Farming.

Canadian Fall Weather

HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Canadian fall weather is extremely hard on little ones. One day it is warm and bright and the next wet and cold. These sudden changes bring on colds, cramps and colic, and unless baby's little stomach is kept right the result may be serious.

There is nothing to equal Baby's Own Tablets in keeping the little ones well. They prevent the spasms that regulate the bowels, break up colds and make baby thrive. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr.

Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

What Strict Accountability Means

President Wilson's strong plea to the electors of the United States is that he "has kept his country out of the war." The All-Highest also has kept most of Germany out of the war for a time, but it is the Allies who kept the Germans out of it. Nor has the President of the United States kept Americans out of the war. Over a hundred of them were killed when U-Boat was torpedoed without warning. The world is shocked, and so far the murderers have not been held to "strict accountability." — Victoria Times.

The Neighborhood Club

In any neighborhood there are certain problems, both business and social problems, that ought to be solved by the individual, but they can be solved by groups of individuals.

No one in a neighborhood is interested in them. You and your neighbors will build up your neighborhood or let it go into dry rot. The neighborhood club is the real working unit in any comprehensive plan for rural organizations. In this connection, all persons are agreed.

That organization is an asset to the day. This does not mean that the neighborhood club cannot be affiliated with other neighborhood clubs

the country over in the attacking of problems that are larger than the community. The place to start work, however, is right in your own neighborhood. — The Farmer.

THE CALL TO SERVICE

Over the rim of the ocean, beyond the stretch of sky,
Stand brothers and husbands and lovers who count it their glory to die;
Broken, unbeaten, heroic, torn limbs and quivering breath,
Day after day, night after night, shoulder to shoulder with death.

Shoulder to shoulder with death! Would we keep them safe at our side, Saved by the blood of their brothers, who followed their duty and died? Safe? Though dead voices are calling and wounded men beckon in pain! Do you who should follow care enough? Have they hewn you a pathway in vain?

They fight, as our forefathers fought, and they die, as our forefathers died. Raw and reckless they rushed to the fight, and they came out well proven and tried. The zip and the bite of the bullet! The thunder and shriek of the shell! Yet they surely find glimpses of heaven, even in uttermost hell!

Will you close your ears to the call, the whisper that thrills through and through? Will you close your eyes to the beckoning, the hearts that are broken for you? For every tear that is falling, and for all the blood that is spilt. Blame only yourselves, oh, ye slackers, for the guilt is mostly your guilt!

GERMANS ARE KEPT IN IGNORANCE OF THE REAL TREND OF THE WAR

MANY MISLED BY OFFICIALLY CONTROLLED NEWS

Very Little is Known by the People of the Successes of the Allies On the West Front, and if Real Facts were Revealed, they Would Shake Foundations of the Teutonic Empire

In "An American's Report of Ten Months in Germany," D. T. Curtis, of Boston, Mass., writes as follows: "Early in August last I was in Berlin. The British-French offensive which had begun on July 1, had already attained its maximum in Germany. Even in the highest military quarters it was considered Britain's final bluff. The great maps in the shop windows of every street showed no changes and still show no change worth noticing. 'The maps speak for themselves,' Germany said."

One hot evening in Berlin I met a young officer whom I had known on a previous visit. I noticed he was ill and out of sorts. He told me he had been unexpectedly called to his regiment on the western front. "How is that?" I said. "He made that curious indestructible German mind which always disconcerts and disatisfies." "These English," he said, "are putting every man they have got into a final ridiculous attempt to make us listen to peace terms. My leave was cut short this evening. We are in a state of battle. You have been to England, haven't you?" he inquired. I told him I had been there last year. "They seem to have more soldiers than we thought," he said. "They seem to be learning the business. My battalion has suffered terribly."

Then, as there were other rumors in Berlin, rumors unknown to the masses. It was suggested to me by a friend that if I wanted to learn the truth I should go to Potsdam and see the arrival of the wounded in the Somme if known through Germany's most effective to let us know of the annexationist party, who believed that Germany had won the war and would hold Belgium, the conquered portion of France and Poland. He told me to go out to Potsdam with caution and warned me that I would have the unusual difficulty in getting anywhere near the artillery signs at the railway station.

I asked another extremely well-formed friend if anything particularly important had been said. He told him I thought of going to Potsdam. He said: "What for? There is nothing seen there—the same old drilling and drilling." So well are secrets kept in Germany.

However, went, and what I saw in Potsdam would, if known to the German people, shake the very foundation of the empire. The hypnotic effect of the German newspapers is not apprehended in Great Britain. Those newspapers are all directed from the front office, which is manipulating the thoughts of these docile people and turn their attention to a particular part of the war with the same eagerness as the operator of a searchlight can direct the beam to any part of the sky. For the moment the whole German nation looks at the beam, nothing else. When people in

Substitute for Rubber

Australian Chemist Discovers Compound to Replace Regular Article

A question asked in the legislative assembly of Victoria about the prevention of a certain valuable Australian invention from falling into the hands of the "rubber ring" has directed attention to a very interesting discovery. Mr. John Flint, Rushcutter's Bay, near Sydney, has, like others all over the world, been experimenting for years with a view to discovering a substitute for rubber. He claims to have solved the problem. His compound, which has been patented wherever possible, is said to have been partly the result of an accident. He had been working for years upon a certain formula.

In making up another formula he made a mistake and the result exceeded the expectations which he cherished all along. To put his discovery to a severe test, he made a motorcar tire, one half of which was the rubber and the other half of his composition. The tire has been used for four months and has travelled 1,500 miles and is still running.

Mr. Flint admits that as regards actual wear his compound shows slightly more depreciation than the rubber, but it is doubtful whether an ordinary observer would notice the difference. His compound is a rival to rubber are plainly suggested by the fact that it can be made at a cost of 10 to 12 cents a pound. It is claimed for the new material that it will serve all the purposes for which rubber is used; that it will not ignite; and that when heated it will not melt.

"Can you tell me where I can buy a good, healthy rattlesnake?"

"What on earth do you want with a rattlesnake?"

"My cousin Bill in Florida just sent me a pet alligator and I want to reciprocate."

France's Legacy After War
New Railways Built and Other Improvements Made Through Exigencies of the War

When the merry bells of peace ring throughout France, and her exiled sons turn to their devastated homes in Northern France, there will at least be some compensation for the deluge of blood and iron that turned their Edenic fields into a wasteland. Mr. John Flint, Allentown, timely thought, reminds France of what she will possess as a legacy from the war. "There are many places in France," he points out, "that have for years been clamoring for light railway facilities. The exigencies of war will have compelled them to pay with a profusion of railway communications, and when peace is declared, however much the rails may have been torn up by shell fire, the tracks will still be there for future use."

"Similarly, all along the front roads have been broadened and multiplied. In certain districts, where the want of water was the main obstacle to progress, hundreds of wells have been bored, and it may be that at the end of the war there will be no wells practically barren and unpromising will enjoy abundance of water and consequent prosperity."

"Then all the factories which have been constructed for the preparation of acids, tar products, powder, and explosives can be turned to peaceful uses, photographic materials, pharmaceutical products, and both organic and inorganic chemical dyes.

With a view to paving the way towards this important transformation, a committee of experts and associations have been formed, of which one of the most important is the "Syndicat National des Matières Colorantes," which is a combination of coal and metallurgical companies, papermakers, dyers, textile manufacturers, etc.

Dreams of Annexations

Germany Continues to Talk of Extension of Territory

The national bond in Germany is based upon force; nothing is true and this is the German people's belief now, as they believed in 1870, that right is might. This is the everlasting truth to which Prince Bismarck gave utterance. There is nothing unexpected in it. But even if we are not surprised by this opinion, we are surprised to think. One of the most intelligent men in Germany, one whose political experience is of the widest, has been able to draw one conclusion from the terrible drama, which is at present shaking Europe. His conclusion is that German militarism must be developed. "We must strengthen ourselves on our coasts and on our frontiers. The result of the war must not be negative, but positive," he said. "We must develop our country, and our country must be a leader, which is not founded upon the complete and total defeat of Germany, a defeat which will enable the conquerors to take the maximum of guarantees against Prince Bismarck."

Annexations and annexations, and still more annexations, is the same as those of Bismarck, Bismarck, Tissmann and others. After four and twenty months of impotence, Germany confesses to what her intentions are. What would they have been if she intended, she had been in six months, to place a large army in the Rhine, the Rhine-Hellem would have been for Germany not a gain but a loss. We must insist upon an augmentation of guarantees and of real securities."

Annexations and annexations, and still more annexations, is the same as those of Bismarck, Bismarck, Tissmann and others. After four and twenty months of impotence, Germany confesses to what her intentions are. What would they have been if she intended, she had been in six months, to place a large army in the Rhine, the Rhine-Hellem would have been for Germany not a gain but a loss. We must insist upon an augmentation of guarantees and of real securities."

Prince Bismarck knows the country will agree with him; but in expressing his views he pronounces the country's condemnation. German militarism and the German nation are one, he says. Hence the necessity imposed upon him of taking a policy in the future not only against the military organization but also against the people who are identified therewith. —Le Temps, French Conservative.

534,727 French Taken

The Paris Journal of September 19 publishes a table of the prisoners and hostages captured by the Allies on their principal front from July 1 to September 18. The capture of the Rumanian army and the Salonic army are not included. The figures are:

	Guns	Machine	Prisoners
French	159	29	5,699
British	109	22	1,650
Russian	841	1580	402,471
Italian	36	92	33,048
	1,131	2,624	490,663

These figures were obtained from the official communiques.

From September 18 to October 4, according to the communiques, the French increased their total of prisoners to 40,313, the British to 27,602, the Russians to 432,564, and the Italians to 34,248, giving a grand total of 534,727. The capture of the western, eastern and southern fronts from July, when the Somme offensive began, to the present time.

SUPERIOR SYSTEM FOR HANDLING AND MARKETING WESTERN GRAIN

OVER THREE THOUSAND COUNTRY ELEVATORS

Some Interesting Information Given by Mr. C. A. Dunning, General Manager of the Saskatchewan Co-Operative Elevator Co., in Reference to Marketing Conditions in the Prairie Provinces

There are in the three prairie provinces over three thousand country elevators with a total storage capacity of about fifty-eight million bushels. Of these three thousand, a large number are owned by line companies. Nearly two hundred are in Manitoba, operated by various companies, and about six hundred in Saskatchewan and about a hundred in Alberta.

These farmers' companies handled approximately one hundred million bushels of the 1915 crop and were increasing an important factor in the handling of the crop of the West.

Speaking at Regina on the marketing of the grain through these elevators, Mr. C. A. Dunning, general manager of the Co-operative Elevator Company, showed in detail the various types taken into the handling of the crop as well as the varying kinds of documents used in the movement of the crop from the country elevator to the ocean port.

Mr. Dunning stated that he had the opportunity of making comparisons in this direction when he was a member of the Royal Commission appointed by the Government some time ago to investigate marketing conditions, and he had come to the conclusion that the Canadian facilities for handling grain with respect to legislative regulation, grading and handling generally were superior to those of any other exporting country.

The Canadian facilities were far more advanced and efficacious than those in Australia. In the Antipodes the grain is sold in bags, and the people believe now, as they believed in 1870, that right is might.

Mr. Dunning referred also to the agitation which is going on in some quarters to permit mixing of grain in the terminal elevators and for provincial grading. He thought it would be the greatest mistake in the history of Canada to tamper with the Canadian Government grade certificate in Europe is too valuable to lose," he continued. "Any mixing of grades would not deceive the European miller for one moment, and our certificate would be held in the same estimation as that of the United States."

Canada is situated geographically at a greater disadvantage than any of its competitors in the world's market. "We have a very long rail haul, and the hauling of grain is the most expensive part of the business. The United States can hardly be taken into account because they are becoming less and less a factor in the world's market. Any grain which they export and which comes into competition with Canada is chiefly exported from the two coasts or close to the great lakes, and thus they have a short haul."

Speaking with reference to the Argentine, Mr. Dunning stated that the grain growing area is there more than five hundred miles from water transportation. This transportation is not like the great lakes, which includes two or three transfers, and involves two or three transfers. The Argentine has the interesting great desert. In Australia the wheat ripened and was threshed right on the field. There was not very great expense involved, and they also had an advantage in ocean transportation. The Australian tariff regulations are in a way more favorable than ours, and this gives Australia an advantage which Canada did not possess. Australia has a far more marked British preference than Canada for their importations of British goods. They had a lower freight rate because vessels coming to take wheat over came loaded with goods, while the vessels carrying Canadian grain came either with half a cargo or with a cargo not very profitable.

India possessed the cheapest labor in the world, and Russia, the greatest wheat producing country in the world, a considerable foreign market. "It is useless to speak of a home market," continued Mr. Dunning, "so long as we are exporting two-thirds of what we produce, and the possibilities of production, so far as grain is concerned, are so far ahead of the possibilities of consumption that it will always be regulated by the price at Liverpool."

The cost of producing grain in Saskatchewan was stated by the general manager to be approximately 62 cents to produce and place at the railway point a bushel in an average year, under average conditions by an average farmer. At the time this figure was made known there was a great deal of criticism of it. Mr. Dunning said he was glad to see that this figure has been confirmed by the Census Bureau of the Dominion Government and the Department of Agriculture. Transportation and expenses to Liverpool cost approximately 34 cents in average time from the ordinary Saskatchewan country elevator, which meant that when the price of wheat went below the dollar mark at Liverpool the farmer lost money.

German Terribleness

Never a More Monstrous Hallucination Than That Which Holds the Teutonic Mind

For twenty-five months the German soldier, like the German sailor, has been sowing hate and loathing and enduring detestation in the hearts of millions. He has not won a world by it; he has not won a war by it. The battles that he has won have been through the superiority of his organization, or his preparation, not through the fear he has put in the hearts of his foes. There has never been a time when his foe was that is, the individual fighting man—was afraid of him.

What a singular delusion this German idea is at once ludicrous and revolting! How deeply into the mind of the German has sunk the chatter about a "superior race!" As it were conceivable that people of the Russian or British nation, with all their centuries of wisdom, courage, of battle and conquest behind them, could be shaken by the mere presence before them of troops of a nation which is but a newcomer in the world and has seen its capital occupied and its sovereignty humiliated by Frenchmen and Russians more than once.

Nor is it less preposterous for German to imagine that the men who willingly and completely dedicate their lives to the service of their country who go forth to battle prepared to die, can be frightened. Never was there a more monstrous hallucination than that which holds the Teutonic mind in thrall. The German sees himself irresistible, terrible, all-powerful; they who behold this self-appointed to the service of the foe. To act upon the state of mind he conceives to exist in the enemy, he has recourse to devices which a foolish nurse might employ to terrify a nervous child.

There is one thing that Germany can do, and that is to be a good neighbor in this world so far. It has dug a gulf between the German and the rest of civilized mankind. Millions of men for the rest of their life-time will feel toward the German as most mankind feels toward a snake. The killing of the officers against humanity, the decrees against labor, the divine law which has marked German policy since August, 1914, have opened a chasm that it will be many decades before a new German spirit could close.—New York Tribune

Destruction of Rhine

Rhine in time of peace had six thousand houses intact; of these, two thousand have been entirely destroyed and three thousand have been damaged more or less seriously. The Germans have guns at a distance of just one mile from the Cathedral, and the Cathedral is in the very heart of Rhine. They are even with their guns of 77 calibre stationed at Nogent l'Abbesse and in the famous fort of Brimont they can hurl shells upon the Cathedral. The two greatest industries of the city before the war was the woolen manufacture and the making of champagne wine. The Germans were unable to load the bulk of the champagne supply or to wreck the immense mileage of wine cellars, but it is a different story with regard to the woolen industry. There is not a single woolen factory left in Rhine. The German espionage system had revealed to them the location of every woolen factory, its capacity and equipment.
